COAL TRADE IMPROVING SLOWLY ALONG VALLEY

Not Thought that Merger will Have Any Great Effect

ECLIPSE MINE RUNNING Start in Full After Partial Suspension of Number of Weeks

Just what bearing the merger of the Monongahela River Consolidated Coal and Coke company with the Pittsburgh Coal company will have on the coal trade of the Monongahela valley is a question, but within the last week there has been noted a gradual improvement that can be taken as a good omen. The merger became effective only a day or so ago. Serving as the gauge by which the coal trade is measured, the record of shipments at Lock No. 4 demonstrate a change for the better industrially. This is in spite of the fact that the slow season is just beginning and the lake trade is practically closed.

From an average shipment of a little over three million bushels of coal monthly to five and six millions since the first of the month the percentage increase is shown. The heaviest shippers have been the Jones and Hughlin company and the Monongahela River Consolidated Coal and Coke company. The latter has been steadily gaining.

For several weeks the Eclipse mine the River combine has been operating only in part, employing about 350 men. This week 350 men were to work and the mine is now running in full. The Little Washington mine, near Roscoe, on the opposite side of the river, is running full. Only a very small mine, but counts its share to the coal trade. Somers No. 4 mine at Pricedale owned by the merger, has been closed indefinitely for no reason known to the public. It was a rail shipping mine.

is thought by coal men that several of the old river mines in the fourth and fifth pools will be running this fall and winter in. At present the stage of water in the Ohio river is good and this has considerable effect on the trade.

Church Dinner at Webster. The Ladies Aid Society of the Webster Presbyterian Church will give a dinner and waffle dinner and supper at the home of A. A. Perkins, on Friday, October 20. Dinner will be served from 12 to 2 and supper from 5 o'clock. Oyster stew, apple pie, also candy, cake and ice cream. The waffle man will be on hand and chickens will be home raised and home dressed. Candy and home made. Everybody will be cordially welcome.

BOARD OF CHARITIES PLANS WINTER WORK

Organization for Relief of Poor Hears Report of Treasurer at Meeting--Some Money Now on Hand

With $55.63 on hand to conduct relief work among the poor, the Associated Board of Charities of Charleroi is planning work for the winter. Since the organization of the Board December 12, 1910, eleven families have been aided and supplied with necessities, which meant a total expenditure of $35.43. At a meeting on Tuesday evening held in Burgess George W. Risbeck's office the treasurer's report was heard. Briefly it was as follows:

Balance on hand May 19.....	$33.81
Proceeds from baseball benefit.....	41.10
Total	$74.91
Purchase of groceries.....	9.28
Balance in treasury.....	$65.63

A charity benefit show will be held sometime this winter, and J. K. Johnston and Burgess George W. Risbeck were appointed a committee to make arrangements. The show will probably be given by home talent, and the date and other announcements will be made later.

The committee is desirous that if anyone is in need of assistance that the members be notified so that they can extend the proper aid. The members and officers of the committee are: President, J. K. Johnston; secretary, L. J. Mitchell; treasurer, William Geller, Burgess George W. Risbeck, Chief of Police C. W. Albright and Health Officer William Darby.

COAL MEN MEET AND TALK OVER NEW CODE AS IT AFFECTS THEM

Superintendents, Mine Foremen and Office Men Hold Session Here--From River Coal Mines

Superintendents and mine foremen gone over piece-meal, where it concerned the inner workings of the company. Inspector William Lauder, G. F. Osler and E. J. McCord of the head offices at Pittsburgh, all of the Monongahela River Consolidated Coal and Coke company, held a meeting at the Wilbur Hotel Wednesday afternoon to discuss the new code and to plan for putting into effect the changes required.

The meeting had nothing to do, it is said, with the merger of the River Coal combine with the Pittsburgh Coal company, inasmuch as the operating will be carried on practically the same. Superintendents and the head office men had previously gone over the new law. At a meeting of the superintendents last week they were given instructions by inspectors. The real purpose of the meeting Tuesday was to educate the mine foremen into their new duties. The new code was

The new law was effective June 9, and since that time a number of changes have gone into effect. Some changes it will take six months or a year to make. Certain changes in doors and the wiring is made necessary.

Those present at the meeting were Inspector William Lauder of Elizabeth, G. F. Osler and E. J. McCord, of Pittsburgh; H. O. Boyer and William Shotten, Brownsville; F. M. Ausburn, William Dickson, William Gillie, John H. Jackson, Roscoe; John Kerr, W. S. Neel, John Mallabone, Thomas Parker, Abe True and John Brewer, Fayette City; F. R. Colvin, Monongahela; William Higginson, James McVicker, Daniel Collins, James Simpson, and John A. Mathewson, California; William Minford, Woods Ban.

Births Outnumber Deaths by Ratio of More Than Two or One

Deaths during the month of September in this district, composing Charleroi, Fallowfield and Twilight, were 12 and births were 26, according to the report of Dr. Edwin McKay, the registrar. The births were as follows: Charleroi 21, Fallowfield township 4, Twilight 1.

YOUNG COUPLE ARE WEDDED AT COUNTY SEAT

Miss Katherine Barrett and C. G. Wilson, both of Charleroi were quietly married at Washington by Justice of the Peace John I. Carson. The couple left quietly and unknown to their friends here and went to Washington, procured a license and the ceremony followed. Both the bride and groom are well known Charleroi young people. The bride is the niece of Thomas Harrington, former Charleroi superintendent of the Pittsburgh-Charleroi railway line. The groom is a respected young man. He is employed at the Pittsburgh Steel mill, Monessen.

There will probably be 15 Charleroi men attend the Knights of Columbus banquet to be held at the Hotel Schenley at Pittsburgh tonight in honor of Columbus day. Charleroi Council, No. 956 Knights of Columbus is taking an active part in the arrangements for the affair, which promises to be one of the best ever held at Pittsburgh.

Teachers Go A Visiting

Put Ideas Learned Elsewhere Into Use in Their Own Work Here

Some of the school teachers in the Charleroi schools have made their first visits to other schools as instructed by the school board. It has been the custom for each teacher to be given a day during the year in which to visit some other school in some other town. This year visiting was begun early and some of the new ideas learned have been put into effect in the daily work. Not only are the teachers expected to utilize in their own work the good ideas they learn in their visits but they are expected at the teachers meetings to describe them, so that they can be used generally.

WATER IN OLD MINE

Break Endangering Life and Property is Much Feared

ROSTRAVER WORKINGS

Some alarm has been caused by a large quantity of water which has collected in the old abandoned Rostraver coal mine in McMahon borough, across the river from Charleroi, which threatens to break loose at any time. The old workings cover an area of about 25 acres and the recent rains and the drainage from the surroundings has caused an immense volume of water to collect. The property is located on a high hill and should it break it would endanger lives and property in the Wireton neighborhood. The Monessen Water Company's plant is located on the hill in the same neighborhood and any break in the old mine might cause additional trouble there.

LOCAL PARTY GOES ON SPECIAL TRAIN

A good sized crowd left this afternoon at 1:20 o'clock from Monessen on the P. & L. E. road for New Castle to attend the State Sunday School convention. The special train stopped at Webster and East Monongahela, where a number more joined it. There was a delegation of possibly 35 or 40 from Charleroi.

Monongahela Crowd to be Guests of Sheriff Murph

MANY YOUNG IN YEARS

Hardened, Sinful Lot of Kind From Which Wyeth Murder Originated

Young in years for the most part, but old in degeneracy and dissipation, and all bearing American names, 19 members of the so-called "Alcohol Gang" of Monongahela were committed to jail Wednesday, as a result of a clean-up raid following the murder of Joshua Wyeth by John Sarver, Jr., last week in a drunken brawl. This gang was a body of young men mostly who, with no visible means of support, congregated at different rendezvous whenever they could make a "raise" with which to purchase liquor--which they did pretty regularly in some manner--drinking, carousing and making themselves obnoxious to both the community and their respective families.

For years this gang has been in existence. Begging, panhandling, "raising the wind" by fair means or foul, these specimens of wrecked humanity have defied law, order and common decency, an eyore to the community and a disgrace to their families. Many petty thefts have been laid at their door and individual members at different times have been brought to book and suffered the penalty of the law for their transgressions. It is also charged that members of the gang have been responsible for some of the more daring burglaries and hold-ups on the highways and streets, which have been perpetrated from time to time in that community and different murders have also been laid at the door of the "Alcohol Gang."

The climax came with the murder of Joshua Wyeth by young John or "Shocky" Sarver last week in one of the orgies of the gang and the Monongahela officials determined to clean up the "Alcohol Gang." As a result 25 persons were rounded up by Officers Chester and Craig. The 25 men were taken before Mayor Isler and given a hearing. Eight of the gang produced the necessary ten-spot and costs and went free while 17 were unable to come across with the coin and were sent up to the sheriff for 60 days.

The names of the gang are: Sam Holland, James (Blink) Ford, Fred Skees, Brick Hayes, William Louttit, William Shunk, George Smith, Barney Biggins, William Ford, Jacob Bowden, William Plowman, John (Chicken) Lee, John Fiscus, John McKinnin, John Berringer, Jude Workman and James McLaughlin.

The other men were committed to the county jail making the total for the day 19, which is the high water mark during the seven years and eight months that Sheriff John C. Murphy has been connected with the bastille.

COLUMBUS DAY.

Although comparatively new in the holiday annals of the country, Columbus Day is not the least of anniversaries which should incite the patriotic interest of true and loyal Americans. Four hundred and nineteen years have elapsed since the lookout on the frail craft of the daring navigator on the morning of October 12 shouted "Land! Land!" but the importance of the discovery has not nearly yet approached the fulfillment. Only a scant vision of the promise of the world yet to be has been realized.

Not only the United States, but all America should join in celebrating the discovery of America by Christopher Columbus. The anniversary should become a Pan-American observance, and the occasion made the opportunity to promote friendliness, good will and peace between the neighbors of the American continents and bind them closer together in the bonds of friendship. The observance of Columbus Day could be made an instrument to strengthen the American policy of the "Monroe Doctrine," which declares "the American continents are not to be made subjects for future European colonization." On the United States will fall the burden of maintaining this declaration if the policy is ever put to the test, which it is likely to be in the not remote future, and the time may come when all the Americas will have need to be united in the closest bonds of friendship for the mutual support of each other.

Therefore the observance of Columbus Day can be made a holiday of great import in the preservation of American liberty and independence. America is the symbol of civil liberty and it is as important to maintain this principle south of the equator as north of it. Columbus Day should become an inspiration along this line.

CLEAN AND HONEST

Why does the forthcoming series of baseball games between the champions of the two big leagues overshadow all other affairs, State or National, social, religious, political, economic, foreign or domestic? Why have fifty thousand people in New York and thirty thousand people in Philadelphia bought tickets to witness the opening game, involving the expenditures of hundreds of thousands of dollars? According to the Uniontown Herald, here is the secret: "It is honest. Were the American public to entertain even a suspicion of its crookedness the game as it is now conducted would die in a year. In the realms of trade, finance and speculation—not to speak of that of politics—the manipulation of loaded dice has become so common that the public mind turns readily to something absolutely on the level. "That being the case it is not strange that there are some for whom baseball, as it is exploited in the National and American leagues, has no charms. The hundreds of thousands of Americans who will see those games and the millions who will read about them bear testimony to the fact that there is one honest interest—even if it be no more than a sport—in a land, the bulk of whose people from year to year ask each other if there be any honest thing under the sun."

ELECTRIC SPARKS

Receptions are usually more pleasant things than installations.

If they keep up this Lorimer sort of probing all over the country many of the politicians will be found "out."

A prize fighter's story of hard luck is usually full of lamentations because he didn't hurt the other fellow.

A man without a family is never in much trouble about the cares of moving.

Many a man who was never more than a private and who never saw a battle, is calling himself "Colonel" or "Major" these days.

It is quite possible for men to do senseless things and still be able to give a reason for them.

One is for the man who does, every time, but few are for the man who simply does time.

The man engaged in a frame-up affair may be other than a politician. He may for instance be in a picture store.

There are people in Charleroi who would be very glad to hear of a case of kidnapping—particularly the one next door at one o'clock in the morning.

A campaign of the "old fashioned kind" might mean lots of things in Washington county.

If Columbus had neglected to discover America we wouldn't have any Columbus Day.

People are willing to honor a man long after he is dead. Then it doesn't do him any good.

Riding on street cars on some lines may be a more hasty method of getting about than walking, but the latter method is a heap more satisfactory and less likely to cause a man to swear.

PICKED UP IN PASSING

A week or more ago the Mail published in this column a brief account of a scene witnessed by Executive Controller Samuel C. Todd, and related to a group of friends by the latter when he was home to vote at the primary election on September 30. The incident was a visit to Fort Henry, one of the New York harbor National defenses, during the recent convention of Governors of the United States which Governor J. K. Tener with Mr. Todd as his guest attended. The incident related was the loading and firing of one of the big 12-inch guns at a target seven miles out in the harbor, which was perforated by a half-ton projectile, propelled by 300 pounds of powder.

A curious coincidence was the presentation of the identical scene in life motion pictures at the Palace Theatre Wednesday night, in the Pathe Weekly Bulletin of noted world's events. Visitors to the theatre saw the operation of loading and firing the big gun as clearly as Governor Tener and Mr. Todd did without the inconvenience of the ear-splitting crash of the discharge. The gunners opened the breech of the big gun, which worked with a screw. Another squad trundled a truck up to the open breech containing a projectile weighing half a ton, and four bags of powder each as large as a seventy-five pound sack of flour. The projectile was slid off the truck into the breech by means of a huge rammer, and then the bags of powder, one after the other, were rammed into the gun against the big projectile. The breech was then closed and the huge gun, arose on its carriage. A man stood on a platform beside it, who signaled the range, and then the gun was discharged. The recoil throwing it back into the pit, below the fortifications, were the gunners swabbed it out and loaded it in a jiffy, and then fired it again, making record time, and each time the shot either came very close to the target or passed through it seven miles away, striking, according to Mr. Todd, 12 seconds after the discharge. What was also remarkable about the picture was the spectacle of Governor Tener and Mr. Todd, as large as life, shown among the group of spectators walking around the gun pit before the firing began. This was prima facie evidence that Sam wasn't "stringing" his auditors when he told them the big gun story.

Down in Pittsburg the other day a prominent attorney told of how he once took on an office boy who was a product of the town district. The lad was alert and sharp as a steel trap, but so raw and uncultured that a vaudeville expert was no comparison in working off original terms. "The first week the boy was with me," says the lawyer, "a woman came in to consult me. She was fashionably dressed, and carried a lognette. This was something the boy had never seen before, and it caught his eye at once. He ushered the woman inescortedly to a seat as I had instructed him to receive clients and then rapping on my private office door, opened it and thrusting his head inside, bawled out: "Hey, boss, woman in here with a pair of specs on a stick wants to see you."

The two old cronies happened to be taking an automobile ride through the fruit belt.

"Rammage," observed the man with the cropped mustache, "this is a land of plenty. I could be perfectly happy here."

"You wouldn't though, Ruggles," returned the man with the auburn beard. "I'll bet you a dollar that the first man you congratulate on his prosperity will put up a howl about his hard luck."

"You're on."

Ten minutes later they stopped at a farmhouse, ostensibly to get a drink of water.

"You've got the finest yield of grapes in that vineyard," casually remarked Ruggles, "I ever saw in my life."

"Yes," gloomed the fruit raiser; "I've got too gash-blamed many grapes this year. I can't git half enough baskets to ship 'em in."

"Rammage, you win," said Ruggles. And they rode on.

DEVIL BIRD HAS AWFUL CRY

Natives of Ceylon Are Not to Be Blamed for Being Terrified by Its Scream.

Of all the awe-inspiring sounds emitted by wild creatures, none, it is said, is to be compared to that of the "devil bird" of Ceylon, whose cry has been likened to the scream of a human being undergoing the most frightful torture. Naturalists have identified this bird with the brown wood-owl found in Hindustan.

The natives of Ceylon regard the cry of this bird with superstitious horror, for, it is claimed, its scream heard at night presages the most dire misfortunes.

A British official of the Ceylon civil service has given some study to this curious bird. Its ordinary note, he states, is a magnificent clear shrill like that of a human being heard at a great distance, and producing a fine effect in the silence of the night.

But the sounds that have earned for the bird its bad name, and which this officer reports he heard to perfection but once, are said to be well-nigh indescribable, the most appalling that can be imagined, and scarcely to be heard without a shudder. It has been compared to the cries of a boy in torture, whose scream are being stopped by strangulation.—Scientific American

Life's Three Questions.

The three great questions of life are, "Is it right or wrong? Is it true or false? Is it beautiful or ugly?" These our education should help us to answer, and in so much as it fails it will lack in reaching a proper physical and moral standard. When the college girl returns to her home, whether it be her parents' or her own, her college training should have fitted her to answer these questions in relation to the fundamental needs of life, in food, clothing, and shelter. This education I believe the teachings of home economics to give. General culture not alone means the capacity to understand and appreciate, but to react on the resources and problems of modern civilization, and these problems in the large mean the preservation of health, the prompting of physical vigor, and the material well-being of the race.—Harper's Bazar

The Quickest Way to Rest.

Do you know how to rest? A very busy man I know takes 20 minutes every day to lie flat on his back on the floor to rest and relax. That is very good, but I have found an even better way, which is to lie flat on the floor with legs up to the knees resting on a chair. This changes the entire circulation, and is the quickest way to rest. Try it. When you lie down to rest at night, and the mind insists upon working, try to relax thoroughly. Turn the thought to the weight of your body; think your hands heavy; keep the thought on the weight of your hands until the nerves tingle as if the hands were going to sleep. If you can feel that tingling sensation you have shown the power of relaxation of the hands. Think different members of the body heavy, until you can let go every nerve as if the entire body were so much jelly ready to melt on the bed. This requires practice, but it pays richly. To rest the eyes and make them bright, while lying down have them bandaged with a soft black silk handkerchief. This was advice received from an eminent eye specialist.—Harper's Bazar.

Sir Thomas Robinson, a wealthy Englishman of the last century, was a tall, uncouth man, and his appearance was rendered still more striking by his hunting dress, which consisted of a tight green jacket, buckskin breeches and a fur cap. He once set off in his hunting suit to pay a visit to his sister in Paris, and he arrived at the house while there was a large company at dinner.

The servant announced "Monsieur Robinson," and in walked this remarkable figure, to the amazement of the guests.

One of the French abbés, lifted his fork three times to his mouth and each time laid it down without tasting the food. Unable at last to restrain his curiosity he burst out eagerly: "Excuse me, monsieur, are you the famous Robinson Crusoe, so remarkable in history?"

Salt on French Roads.
As a general rule, the roads in and around French towns are tarred at the commencement of the summer in order to abate the dust nuisance. It has, however, been found that tar, although excellent in the case of macadamized roads, is of little or no value where car lines exist and paved street crossings intersect the roads in every direction, as tarring cannot be carried out on stones.

The authorities, basing their action on the well-known hygienical properties of common salt, have made a test of its value in laying the dust. Twenty yards of roadway have been sprinkled liberally with salt and then watered freely. If the results are satisfactory, salt will be used throughout the town of Havre, it being impossible to tar the majority of the streets, as they are paved with rough stone blocks.

Facts About Indigestion and Its Relief That Should Interest You

Although indigestion and Dyspepsia are so prevalent most people do not thoroughly understand their cause and cure. There is no reason why most people should not eat anything they desire—if they will only chew it carefully and thoroughly. Many actually starve themselves into sickness through fear of eating every good-looking, good-smelling and good-tasting food, because it does not agree with them.

The best thing to do is to fit yourself to digest any good food. We believe we can relieve Dyspepsia. We are so confident of this fact that we guarantee and promise to supply the medicine free of all cost to every one who will use it, who is not perfectly satisfied with the results which it produces. We exact no promises and put no one under any obligation whatever. Surely, nothing could be fairer. We are located right here and our reputation should be sufficient assurance of the genuineness of our offer.

We want every one troubled with Indigestion or Dyspepsia in any form to come to our store and buy a box of Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets. Take them; home and give them a reasonable trial, according to directions. Then, if not satisfied, come to us and get your money back. They are very pleasant to take; they aid to soothe the irritable stomach, to strengthen and invigorate the digestive organs, and to promote a healthy and natural bowel action, thus leading to perfect and healthy digestion and assimilation.

A 25c package of Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets furnishes 15 days' treatment. In ordinary cases, this is sufficient to produce a cure. In more chronic cases, a longer treatment, of course, is necessary, and depends upon the severity of the trouble. For such cases, we have two larger sizes which sell for 50c and $1.00. Remember, you can obtain Rexall Remedies in this community only at our store—The Rexall Store, Carrolls Drug Store, 623 Fallowfield avenue, Charleroi.

For Nifty Dressers.

To the man with a small income economy is essential. By throw away your old socks because the heels and toes are worn out? Cut off the legs, and (after washing of course) sew them to the tops of your new pair of socks. Do the same when the lower pair is worn out, and so on as long as possible. A man who becomes attached to his cowlery may, by this simple process, in time become the owner of a handsome union suit, without any extra expense.

When you cut off your beard save your whiskers. Shoulders are to be wider, and human hair, especially when curly, makes the best possible padding. Or keep friendly with your barber and get him to save his clippings for you.

Avoid aniline dyes when you wish to recolor your light spring suit for fall wear. Vegetable dyes are much softer and more delicate. Almost any of the leading brands of canned soups will give a rich, mellow tone to worsted fabrics. Tomato, mock turtle and gumbo will be the prevailing hues next season. Use hot water for cotton goods and milk for woolens. Use the salt "A-Haberasher," in Leslie's.

Algerian Bargaining.

Americans who travel in eastern lands are amused as well as aggravated by the business methods which prevail there. A recent traveler in Algiers concluded to buy a mule, and finally found one for sale.

He went to the owner, with an interpreter, and a dialogue then ensued, as follows:

The interpreter, with a yell: "I will give you ten dollars for that mule."

The Arab: "Ten dollars! Murder! Thief! Brigand!"

The interpreter: "I will make it eleven dollars. Do you hear, you scoundrel? I offer you eleven dollars for your mule which will die in about a week. You are a robber and a thief to take that much; but I am a generous man, and I serve a great man, so I lower you even dollars, you scum of Africa!"

Then they both yelled and shook their fists at each other, and to the American it looked as if they were going for each other, hammer and tongs.

The row they made was terrible, but no one seemed to notice it.

Finally a bargain was struck, and then they fell upon each other's necks and embraced.

And the American got his mule for eleven dollars.

One of Life's Problems.

We are involved so early in the prejudices of so many whose interest is concerned to communicate them to us, that it becomes extremely difficult to distinguish through the rest of life what is natural to us and what is artificial.

SUPERSTITIONS OF THE HOME

Some of Them Are Traced to Domestic Economy and Others to Thrifty Habits.

The signs and wonders of the household have markedly diminished in the last quarter century. Many of them were picturesque and diverting. Few of them were taken seriously enough to be harmful.

It is easy to trace some of them to their sources in domestic economy. A group of them, for example, had to do with the approach of an unexpected guest. The scissoring of a knife sticking up straight in the floor, a dropped dish cloth, or a long floating stem in a cup of tea—all these foretold arrivals. They had the agreeable double effect of keeping the household up to a high mark of preparedness and of breaking monotony by the pleasure of anticipated society. If the prophesied caller followed the dropping of a saucer the sign received an increased authority. When the promise failed, the failure was promptly forgotten.

Another group of superstitious rests upon the thrifty habits of former times. To pick up a pin brought good luck. To neglect to snuff a candle until it was wasted by a "weeper" was sure to involve misfortune. An overabundance of tea grounds in the cup spoke of careless measures, and so threatened debt. A second helping of food before the first was eaten foretold an undesirable beggar.

The woman's mind, if left to itself, turns naturally to believe the make-believe. A housewife likes to pit her reason against her reason. The mere act of absurd illogic gives variety and charm to an otherwise dull afternoon of housework, and nobody is the worse for stretching the arm of imagination to provide a mild superstition of the old-fashioned sort.

IT PLEASES THE SERVANTS

Berlin Police Arbitrarily Fix the Sum They Shall Be Allowed for Food.

Another instance of the way in which the Berlin police authorities interest themselves in every detail of the private life of the city's inhabitants is afforded by a decree just issued by the police president which arbitrarily fixes the sum per day which is to be allowed for food to domestic servants during their employers' absence in summer.

The term "domestic servant" includes everything, from the maid of all work of the small household to the butler, with all his retinue of lesser lights, in the house of the rich, and the decree lays down that each man servant shall receive a daily allowance of 35 cents and each maid servant 30 cents for food during the owner's time of their employer's absence.

The new police regulation has been greeted with more delight by the servants than by their employers, especially among the middle classes, where the domestic servant problem in Germany is already acute enough. Although the amount of the daily allowance cannot be considered as excessive in relation to the present prices of food, when it is remembered that the ordinary wage, which in Germany is anything from $7.50 per month upward for the average domestic servant, has also to be paid during the employer's absence, it will be seen that the new regulation will mean a considerable item in the reckoning of the middle-class family about its summer vacation.

PERSECUTION OF THE GIPSY

Forty-five Executed in Hungary in 1728 on the Charge of Being Cannibals.

The persecution of Gypsies recalls the old belief that the Gypsies were cannibals, and the methods by which judicial confirmation of the belief was sometimes obtained. In 1728 45 Hungarian Gypsies were executed on this charge. First racked until they confessed to murder, they were taken to the place where their victims were supposed to be buried and racked again. No bodies were discovered. Therefore they confessed to eating them, and were duly executed. Joseph II sent a commission down to investigate the case later and the entire innocence of the Gypsies was proved, but history does not say what happened to the witnesses for the prosecution.

Gypsies are still more or less "persecuted," though in our milder modern sense of the word. And no wonder. A couple of years ago it was stated on official authority that in Hungary most of the serious crimes—murders, kidnapping and robberies—were committed by Gypsies, and very few of the offenders were caught. Gypsies are mighty difficult customers to tackle. When it was proposed in France that all nomads should have identity cards, to be checked at each stopping place, one of them said to a Parisian reporter: "But I can't read, and I can't write, and I don't know how old I am, nor where I was born, and I don't remember the names of the places where my children were born, nor their ages exactly. We don't bother ourselves about such things." What can you do with people so astutely ignorant?

Blistering Once Universal. Blistering formerly was an almost universal treatment for internal congestion to draw the diseased fluid to the surface. It acted as a counter-irritant. It was also used for sciatica. Blistering is still used to a slight extent, but a milder and more frequently employed.

INSECTS HARMFUL TO MAN

Most of Them Are Worse Than Useless and Should Be Killed at Sight.

Our instinct to kill insects at sight is perfectly sound, writes Dr. Woods Hutchinson. Out of the quarter of a million species now known to science, a mere handful are even remotely helpful to man, and most of these only by their power of living upon other and more dangerous insects. On the other hand, thousands of species are actively hostile to man, to his food plants and to his domestic animals. Whole tribes have been swept out of existence by the attack of insects carrying bacilli—as within the last two decades, in central Africa, by the dread "sleeping sickness" carried by the tsetse fly. Whole nations have been weakened and crippled and whole civilizations retarded by another insect-borne disease, malaria.

Indeed, recent investigators have advanced the theory that the historic decline of both Greece and Rome was largely due to the ravages of this disease, brought into Europe by armies returning from wars in Asia and Africa. It may yet come, when we see things in their true perspective, that the warriors of civilized nations will turn from slaughtering one another to battling against our insect enemies.

Turn ever battery of artillery in the world against that angel of the pestilence, the common house fly, and in ten years he would be exterminated, root and branch. With him would go half of our 50,000 deaths in the United States every year from the summer diseases of children, two-thirds of our dysenteries and cholera morbus, and one-fourth of our typhoid, with not a little of our tuberculosis, our tetanus and our boils and blood poisonings.

MOUNTAIN GOAT A NUISANCE

Annoy Alaskan Miners by Getting Into Their Tunnels and Eating Their Location Stakes.

Miners in Mineral Gulch, Alaska, are having considerable trouble with mountain goats.

During stormy weather the goats crowd into the tunnels that are being driven on the claims well up on the mountains, and it is only by throwing a dynamite cartridge into the tunnels in the morning that they can be driven out and the contractors get in to go to work.

It is also stated that they are likely to be the cause of considerable litigation among mine owners next year, as they have destroyed a number of location stakes by eating them.

Owing to the fact that alder and willow comprise the only wood in the gulch, nearly all the location stakes are of these woods, which, in the absence of other food, the goats attack eagerly.

A great many of the animals have been killed by the men at work in the gulch, but the number seems to increase rather than diminish.

ELECTRIC POWER FROM WIND

Economical Lighting Plants Can Be Based on It, With Gasoline Motors to Help.

There has never been a time when the forces of nature were subjected to such searching scrutiny to determine their availability for the development of mechanical power as they receive at present. This arises mainly from the aggressive use of electricity.

Among other things it is believed that the wind can be utilized to a far greater extent than in the past, especially for electrical lighting. With this object in view the average state of the wind has been investigated in England. It is found that for approximately half the time the mean wind velocity is ten miles an hour, and for about one-third of the time fifteen miles. In the winter the average is higher. The great difficulty arises from the calm periods, which may last days, or even a week, but it has been shown that economical lighting plants can be based upon wind power by providing gasoline motors to take up the work whenever the wind falls.

The Conscience of Clara.

One day when Mrs. Bell was making a neighborly call on Mrs. Ellis, the latter, in the presence of her caller, discharged her colored maid, whose peevishness could be borne no longer.

A few weeks later Mrs. Bell again called on Mrs. Ellis, and to her surprise her hostess informed her that Clara was back.

The services of the maid were required by her mistress, who pressed the button in the drawing room. There was, however, no response. Finally Mrs. Ellis went out and waited on herself. While she was gone, Clara, who was acquainted with Mrs. Bell having served in her family also, put her head in at the door and explained:

"Mis' Bell, I heard Mis' Ellis all the time, but do you recollect the last time you was here she discharged me, an' said she'd never have me again? I said I'd never come back, too. But here I am, so we bofe lied. That's why I've ashamed to come in I was ashamed for bofe of us!"

Indestructible Wild Silk. Chinese wild silk is said to be practically indestructible. It can be buried for over a year without great ill effect.

LIVERY STABLE STOCK IN VENICE!

If a man of ordinary intelligence were approached by an affable stranger and urged to buy stock in a livery stable in Venice, he would in all likelihood feel insulted. He would have reason to be, for such an offer would be a reflection on his intelligence.

It is along lines like this that some business men advertise. For instance: A clothier has a line of suits near the end of the season that he desires to close out. He advertises them at a sharp reduction. Compared with what he paid for them and what he sold them for at the opening of the season, they are a bargain. The public does not want the suits at that particular time at any price, and the clothier, not getting the results, makes a deduction that advertising doesn't pay, and ceases to advertise.

In the meantime the big department store in the nearest city is flooding the newspapers with cuts and descriptions of nifty ties, collars, marked down shirts that are good at any time, seasonable underwear at special prices that is needed to fill in between times.

The local dealer is disappointed because people won't buy stock in a livery stable in Venice; and loses the sale of other stocks that might be practicable.

The department store in the city gets the trade because it knows that the ordinary person has no use for something he does not need at that particular time.

The business man who never gets advertising to produce results are the Micawbers of trade—always waiting for something to turn up. The man who knows how to advertise, and tries to sell the people something they want, WHEN THEY WANT IT and not to unload what he doesn't want—turns something up.

MAKING RAIN WITH ROCKETS

Experiments Tried With Considerable Success on a Coffee Plantation in Southern India.

Experiments made to ascertain whether the discharge of explosives during cloudy weather produces rainfall are described in a letter from James Stanes.

"Some years ago," he says, "an experiment was tried in the Cuddapah district of southern India with considerable success. I am part owner of an estate in the Seramully hills, which is situated in a particularly dry zone. For several seasons poor coffee crops withered away from lack of rain during July and August."

"When I was visiting the estate in July, 1905, I noticed that heavy clouds gathered every afternoon and I thought that if we had been in a position to fire explosive rockets from the highest peak of the hills, about 4,500 feet, a shower of rain might have been produced."

"I therefore arranged to have a supply of rockets kept on the estate and fired off every afternoon at the rate of one rocket every five minutes, but only when the condition of the atmosphere was such that heavy rain threatened on all sides."

"Whether rain has fallen in response to these explosives or not the fact remains that ever since we first tried the experiment we have been fortunate enough to catch sufficient moisture to enable the crops to survive the drought."

Firing into the clouds with the object of causing rain was practiced for several years in southern Germany, Switzerland and France, but seems to have been abandoned some time ago. The idea was to protect the vineyards and other cultivations from damage by hailstones. It being thought that by the discharge of large guns rain would fall and that the danger from hailstorms would be averted.—London Daily Mail

Read These Facts About BUTTERINE

Butterine contains more food properties than butter. It costs only half as much as good butter. Its use is more beneficial to the health than butter. It is germ proof, while butter has some tendency to germ culture.

It contains the same elements as butter, and is made in a more perfect and sanitary way.

It is used in many instances in preference to butter, because it is better.

It gives better service than butter.

It does not become rancid easily.

It is clean, sweet and pure.

North Charleroi

A. M. Hill of Rices Landing, returned on Monday from a visit at the home of Joseph Nutt in Bucks county and visited at the home of G. W. Paxton in North Charleroi before returning home today.

G. S. Nutt is a Pittsburg visitor today.

Mrs. H. A. Williams spent Wednesday in Duquesne with friends.

A dime social was held at the home of Arthur Powell on Monday evening as a benefit for the First Christian church of Charleroi. There was a good sized crowd present and an enjoyable time was had. Games and music were diversions and lunch was served.

Born—To Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Nutt a son.

Outspoken Youth.

On a recent railway trip a boy of perhaps seven years and his mother occupied the "hat dress" in front of me. The boy kept up a running fire of questions as to the name of the next station. The mother was either unfamiliar with the name or too indifferent to be accurate. When the station was reached the boy demanded the name and on receiving the correct answer said: "You told me a lie before." A similar conversation was several times repeated, the boy each time saying, "That's another lie," and finally he shouted: "You've told me lies ever since we started." A man seated near, becoming exasperated, leaned toward the boy and in a threatening tone said: "Young man, if you don't keep still a while I will throw you out of the window," and the boy, boldly facing the man, said: "And that's another lie!"

PASTOR IS WELCOMED

Rev. J. E. Charles Tendered Reception by His Congregation

RETURNED ON SUNDAY

Rev. Jos. E. Charles, pastor of the French Presbyterian church was back in his pulpit last Sunday. He was greeted by large audiences. His sermons on that day were: "The Christian Minister's One Theme," and "The Needed Church of the Age."

A reception was tendered to Rev. Charles and his wife an account of their return from abroad in the church Friday evening, October 6. The church was filled with people wanting to show their appreciation and esteem for their pastor and his estimable wife. M. Plasman, Jr., presided. The presidents of the different societies of the church, Messrs. Plasman, Parmenter and Verkleen made speeches. Rev. J. T. Hackett and J. K. Brumbaugh also spoke, every one expressing his gladness to see the pastor and his wife come back and continue their work in Charleroi.

Miss Margaret Morgan and Master Arnold Plasman read addresses, expressing the warm sentiments of the congregation and the Sunday School toward them. Then a magnificent picture of Rev. and Mrs. Charles in a heavy oak frame was presented to them as a token of affection and appreciation of their labors. Rev. Charles responded in a very appropriate manner.

The church was beautifully decorated. There were songs and music by an orchestra. Refreshments were served to all in the basement. Nothing was spared to make the evening one of the most interesting and enjoyable in the history of the congregation. Rev. and Mrs. Charles as well as the members of the church are to be congratulated.

The Jewel Box Alarm.

An ingenious invention, which will undoubtedly prove useful to the possessor of valuable jewels and trinkets, is the jewel box alarm, recently put on the market. In the bottom of the box is fixed the small instrument, which is to be electrically discharged by moving a small lever. The sound is made by means of a bell and clapper, resembling those found in a telephone. In the center of the box hangs a small pendulum. If the box is moved the pendulum swings, the circuit is closed and the alarm goes off. The noise resembles that of an alarm clock and does not cease until it is pushed again.

Gate Between Two Rooms.

It proved a blessing in one house. It is fastened in the doorway, between the nursery and "mother's room." There are times when the mother likes to watch the children without being right among them. Often sewing or writing may be done more easily with the gate between the mother and the little ones.—Ladies' Home Journal.

TALKS OF METHODS

Democratic Candidate Doesn't Admire Boodle Plan

To the Editor of the Charleroi Mail:

Sir—Your editorial on "Cause and Effect" is a fair sample of the crimes that are committed every day in some part of the Commonwealth, and it brings out in full view the importance of the subject, "Which is the Best Method to Prevent Crime." When I challenged the candidates for sheriff to debate this matter I had compiled a list of criminal cases that passed through the jails of Washington, Allegheny, Fayette and Westmoreland counties during the incumbency of the present officials of the court house as follows:

Allegheny county, 14,000; Fayette, 6,000; Washington, 4,000; Westmoreland, 1,700. I gave the list to Mrs. Austin, stenographer on the staff of the Monongahela Republican, who was present at the talk in the park on Sunday, September 24. I had it prepared for the education of the voter of Washington county in handling criminals who will one day take their places in the different localities from whence they came.

Now, let me give you a sample of the methods of campaigning at the present time. I will give it for what it is worth. It can be affirmed or denied.

On Friday evening, September 29, while driving home in Fallowfield township I was accosted by a stranger, under the influence of liquor. He asked me if I would give him a ride as the road was muddy and he was tired. I did so. He told me he was electioneering for a certain candidate for sheriff, on whom much money would be spent in order that the candidate might win out. This candidate, the man said, had given him $50 to work among the voters for him.

On election day in Charleroi six voters asked assistance from a bar-keeper to mark their ballot. While there may not be anything wrong in this, yet who can say what influence it may have in after years on "Cause and Effect."

The Keystone party candidates are in wrong, because that party is founded on revenge, rather than principle, and the so-called fusion is a false pretense. I am the candidate for the straight-out Democratic party. I invite the co-operation of all parties and if elected sheriff, I will give them an administration that will live in history. Let me say in conclusion that my name will stay on the Democratic ballot until it is taken off on the 7th of November.

Edward Callaghan.

Fallowfield, Pa., Oct. 13, 1911.

"EIGHTS" ARE THEIR HOODOOS

Postal Clerks Say Stamps of That Denomination Cause Them Much Financial Loss.

When a meek little man stepped up to the stamp window in a branch office and asked for an eight cent stamp he caused as much consternation as if he had demanded "your money or your life."

All the clerks came to the window to take a look at him. They muttered to one another and made strange and fantastic signs, crossed their fingers, knocked on wood and did various other things that are supposed to drive away evil spirits.

"We're just out of eight cent stamps," a clerk finally stammered. "Got lots of two and ones."

"Well, gimme a five and a three," said the meek little man, upon receiving which he paid for them and departed.

"What's the matter with the eights?" queried an inquisitive spectator.

The stamp clerk was still too nervous to answer, but one of the others said, with a smile:

"Eights are hoodoos. None of the small offices handle them if they can help it. It's this way: They are just a wee shade different in color from the ones and it is no infrequent thing for a stamp clerk in a hurry to hand out a lot of eights when ones are asked and paid for. It always costs him seven cents a stamp when he does it. The clerk here the other day, during the rush hour, when the offices are closing, was called upon for a dollar's worth of ones. He handed out a hundred eights instead. Cost him seven dollars. Then he got rid of all the rest of the eights and now he won't have anything to do with eights. Even says 'enten' instead of 'ate.'"

Candidates Tell How Much They Spent for Nomination

FIFTY CENTS FOR ONE

Candidate at the late primary election continue to file their expense accounts in the clerk's office at Washington in conformity with the law. Among those which appeared Tuesday was that of John H. Bowers, who was a candidate for the nomination for treasurer on the Republican ticket. Mr. Bowers spent, according to his statement, $1,087.40, the most of which was expended in advertising in the county newspapers.

Edward Callaghan, who was one of the Democratic candidates for the nomination for sheriff, states that his expense account was less than 50 cents. The law does not require a detailed statement if the expense account is less than $50, and provides a blank for that purpose. Mr. Callaghan crosses out the $50 in the blank and substitutes 50 cents.

Mrs. Anna G. Yates and Miss R. A. Roberts returned Tuesday evening from a visit at the home of William H. Blatzell, chief engineer of the Crucible Coal company at Beaver Falls. Mr. Roberts was a visitor over Sunday with Mr. Blatzell.

She Knew Harry.

"Now, Harry, go to Smith's, the grocer, and get a pound of the best syrup," said his mother, and she handed the young hopeful a couple of oversized jugs. When the boy had gone the vicar's wife said:

"You didn't tell him to get anything in the other jug. Is he going to leave it at the shop?"

"No, ma'am; he's going to bring it back here again."

"But why send two jugs to get a pound of syrup?"

"Well, you see, it's this way. If he has a jug in each hand, he can't go dipping his finger in the syrup and eating it as he comes along."

A Stupid Hunter.

Returning from two months spent on a ranch he was telling a story of hunting in the hills with an Englishman.

"All of us were out hunting one day," said he, "and the Englishman shot at everything that moved. If the wind carried a cloud of dust upward, you could depend on 'is lads'hip to shoot at it. So it happened that he narrowly missed shooting a young woman, who, with her husband, was visiting on the ranch. When our party returned the husband, boiling angry, approached the Englishman and said:

"Look here, you damned stupid ass, you missed shooting my wife by an inch."

"Aw, missed her!" said the Englishman, either astonished or perplexed. "By an inch, by Jove? Well, old man, I'm sorry, very sorry."

Digestive Properties of Eggs.

The latest news of how eggs go in the stomach is: Two freshest soft boiled, one and three-quarters hours; two raws, two and one-quarter hours; hard boiled, three hours; omelette, three hours. The figures speak for themselves, but do not tell the whole truth, for it looks as if soft boiled are more easily digested than raws, whereas, raws are so bland and gentle as not to excite the flow of the gastric juices—not a single squirm of the stomach.—New York Press.

We Want to See You---- We'll Treat You Rightly

We know you don't like to be pulled and hauled all over the store, passed through the gauntlet of clerks and finally turned over to the proprietor simply because you don't find what you want, and you don't want some little whippersnapper of a clerk to insist upon your taking what you don't want. Shoes should stand on their merits and a first-class shoe house always has a large enough assortment for a customer to be suited without having something forced on him which he forever dislikes. Come our way. If we cannot possibly suit you we will treat you kindly just the same. One thing certain—if you can't find anything to suit you in our store, you can't find it in Charleroi. And, furthermore, if you don't find that our prices are right, don't spend a cent with us. Fair proposition hey?

COAL TRADE IMPROVING SLOWLY ALONG VALLEY

Not Thought that Merger will Have Any Great Effect

ECLIPSE MINE RUNNING Start in Full After Partial Suspension of Number of Weeks

Just what bearing the merger of the Monongahela River Consolidated Coal and Coke company with the Pittsburg Coal company will have on the coal trade of the Monongahela Valley is a question, but within the last week there has been noted a gradual improvement that can be seen as a good omen. The merger came effective only a day or so ago. Serving as the gauge by which the coal trade is measured, the record of shipments at Lock No. 4 demonstrate a change for the better industrially. This is in spite of the fact that the slow season is just beginning and the lake trade is practically closed.

From an average shipment of a little over three million bushels of coal monthly to five and six millions since the first of the month the percentage increase is shown. The heaviest operations have been the Jones and Ughlin company and the Monongahela River Consolidated Coal and Coke company. The latter has been steadily gaining.

For several weeks the Eclipse mine of the River combine has been operating only in part, employing about 100 men. This week 350 men were to work and the mine is now running in full. The Little Washington mine, near Roscoe, on the opposite side of the river, is running full, only a very small mine, but contributes its share to the coal trade. Somers No. 4 mine at Pricedale, owned by the merger, has been closed indefinitely for no reason known to the public. It was a rail-shipping mine.

It is thought by coal men that several of the old river mines in the fourth and fifth pools will be running this fall and winter in. At present the stage of water in the Ohio river is good and this has considerable effect on the trade.

Church Dinner at Webster. The Ladies Aid Society of the Webster Presbyterian Church will give a dinner and waffle dinner and supper at the home of A. A. Perkins, on Friday, October 20. Dinner will be served from 12 to 2 and supper from 5 o'clock. Oyster stew, der, also candy, cake and ice cream. The waffle man will be on hand and chickens will be home-raised home dressed. Candy and home made. Everybody will be cordially welcome.

Due Tax Payers of N. Charleroi. Enough taxes will be received at cent discount until October 30, inclusive.

Much Gravel is Shipped

Material Being Taken up River for Use in Constructing Railroad Bridge

Consigned largely to Martin and points in Green and Fayette counties where work of building a new railroad and a new railroad river bridge is going on, considerable gravel is being sent up the river. Some of the gravel is consigned to the Crucible Coal company, which is opening a new mine near Rices Landing, but for the most part the gravel is being sent to the scene of operations on the new Monongahela railroad line.

DARGOST IS HELD

Coroner's Jury in Murder Case Makes Recommendations

EVIDENCE BROUGHT OUT

After hearing the testimony in the murder of Walter Plakatis, the Charleroi man found dead near Riverview Saturday night, the coroner's jury sitting at Monongahela Wednesday afternoon, recommended that Clement Dargost be held pending further investigations.

It was brought out at the inquest, that the story told in the Mail of Plakatis and a friend leaving here on Saturday night was essentially correct, and it was further brought out that Dargost was the friend with whom he was last seen. Dargost will be held to await the action of the next grand jury.

SEAT RESERVATION ON FRIDAY NIGHT

The seat reservation for the Charleroi Citizen's Entertainment course will start on Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock at Piper's Pharmacy. A number of tickets have been sold by the members of the committee and that together with the excellence of the attractions this year indicates that there will be fully as great a demand for seats as there was last year.

Legion Will Hold Meeting. The Loyal Temperance Legion will hold a meeting at the Washington Avenue Presbyterian church just after school Friday evening and a special program has been arranged by which the young folks may be entertained. Miss Norma Bosson will render a violin solo and Miss Marie Whitehead will contribute recitations.

BOARD OF CHARITIES PLANS WINTER WORK

Organization for Relief of Poor Hears Report of Treasurer at Meeting—Some Money Now on Hand

With $65.63 on hand to conduct relief work among the poor, the Associated Board of Charities of Charleroi is planning work for the winter. Since the organization of the Board December 12, 1910, eleven families have been aided and supplied with necessities, which meant a total expenditure of $35.43. At a meeting on Tuesday evening held in Burgess George W. Risbeck's office the treasurer's report was heard. Briefly it was as follows:

Balance on hand May 19.....$33.81
Proceeds from baseball benefit. 41.10
Total$74.91
Purchase of groceries..... 9.28
Balance in treasury.....$65.63

A charity benefit show will be held sometime this winter, and J. K. Johnston and Burgess George W. Risbeck were appointed a committee to make arrangements. The show will probably be given by home talent, and the date and other announcements will be made later.

The committee is desirous that if anyone is in need or assistance that the members be notified so that they can extend the proper aid. The members and officers of the committee are: President, J. K. Johnston; secretary, L. J. Mitchell; treasurer, William G. Burgess; George W. Risbeck, Chief of Police C. W. Albright and Health Officer William Darby.

COAL MEN MEET AND TALK OVER NEW CODE AS IT AFFECTS THEM

Superintendents, Mine Foremen and Office Men Hold Session Here—From River Coal Mines

Superintendents and mine foremen gathered over piece-meal, where it concerned the inner workings of the new law was effective June 9, and since that time a number of changes have gone into effect. Some changes it will take six months or a year to make. Certain changes in doors and the wiring is made necessary.

Those present at the meeting were Inspector William Lauder of Elizabeth, G. F. Osler and E. J. McCord of the head offices at Pittsburgh, all of the Monongahela River Consolidated Coal and Coke company, held a meeting at the Wilbur Hotel Wednesday afternoon to discuss the new mine code and to plan for putting into effect the changes required.

The meeting had nothing to do, it is said, with the merger of the River Coal combine with the Pittsburgh Coal company, inasmuch as the operating will be carried on practically the same. Superintendents and the head office men had previously gone over the new law. At a meeting of the superintendents last week they were given instructions by inspectors. The real purpose of the meeting Tuesday was to educate the mine foremen into their new duties. The new code was

Miss Katherine Barrett and C. G. Wilson, both of Charleroi were quietly married at Washington by Justice of the Peace John I. Carson. The couple left quietly and unknown to their friends here and went to Washington, procured a license and the ceremony followed. Both the bride and groom are well known Charleroi young people. The bride is the niece of Thomas Harrington, former Charleroi superintendent of the Pittsburgh-Charleroi railway line. The groom is a respected young man. He is employed at the Pittsburgh Steel mill, Monessen.

Teachers Go A Visiting

Put Ideas Learned Elsewhere Into Use in Their Own Work Here

Some of the school teachers in the Charleroi schools have made their first visits to other schools as instructed by the school board. It has been the custom for each teacher to be given a day during the year in which to visit some other school in some other town. This year visiting was begun early and some of the new ideas learned have been put into effect in the daily work. Not only are the teachers expected to utilize in their own work the good ideas they learn in their visits but they are expected at the teachers meetings to describe them, so that they can be used generally.

WATER IN OLD MINE

Break Endangering Life and Property is Much Feared

ROSTRAVER WORKINGS

Some alarm has been caused by a large quantity of water which has collected in the old abandoned Rostraver coal mine in McMahon borough, across the river from Charleroi, which threatens to break loose at any time. The old workings cover an area of about 25 acres and the recent rains and the drainage from the surroundings has caused an immense volume of water to collect. The property is located on a high hill and should it break it would endanger lives and property in the Wireton neighborhood. The Monessen Water Company's plant is located on the hill in the same neighborhood and any break in the old mine might cause additional trouble there.

LOCAL PARTY GOES ON SPECIAL TRAIN

A good sized crowd left this afternoon at 1:28 o'clock from Monessen on the P. & L. E. road for New Castle to attend the State Sunday School convention. The special train stopped at Webster and East Monongahela, where a number more joined it. There was a delegation of possibly 35 or 39 from Charleroi.

Monongahela Crowd to be Guests of Sheriff Murphy

MANY YOUNG IN YEARS

Hardened, Sinful Lot of Kind From Which Wyeth Murder Originated.

Young in years for the most part, but old in degeneracy and dissipation, and all bearing American names, 19 members of the so-called "Alcohol Gang" of Monongahela were committed to jail Wednesday, as a result of a clean-up raid following the murder of Joshua Wyeth by John Sarver, Jr., last week in a drunken brawl. This gang was a body of young men mostly who, with no visible means of support, congregated at different rendezvous whenever they could make a "raise" with which to purchase liquor—which they did pretty regularly in some manner—drinking, carousing and making themselves obnoxious to both the community and their respective families.

For years this gang has been in existence. Begging, panhandling, "raising the wind" by fair means or foul, these specimens of wrecked humanity have defied law, order and common decency, an eyore to the community and a disgrace to their families. Many petty thefts have been laid at their door and individual members at different times have been brought to book and suffered the penalty of the law for their transgressions. It is also charged that members of the gang have been responsible for some of the more daring burglaries and hold-ups on the highways and streets, which have been perpetrated from time to time in that community and different murders have also been laid at the door of the "Alcohol Gang."

The climax came with the murder of Joshua Wyeth by young John or "Shokey" Sarver last week in one of the orgies of the gang and the Monongahela officials determined to clean up the "Alcohol Gang." As a result 25 persons were rounded up by Officers Chester and Craig. The 25 men were taken before Mayor Lauder and given a hearing. Eight of the gang produced the necessary ten spot and costs and went free while 17 were unable to come across with the coin and were sent up to the sheriff for 60 days.

The names of the gang are: Sam Holland, James (Blink) Ford, Fred Skees, Brick Hayes, William Lottitt, William Shunk, George Smith, Barney Biggins, William Ford, Jacob Bowden, William Plowman, John (Chicken) Lee, John Fiscus, John McKinnin, John Berringer, Jude Workman and James McLaughlin.

The other men were committed to the county jail making the total for the day 19, which is the high water mark during the seven years and eight months that Sheriff John C. Murphy has been connected with the bastille.

COLUMBUS DAY.

Although comparatively new in the holiday annals of the country, Columbus Day is not the least of anniversaries which should incite the patriotic interest of true and loyal Americans. Four hundred and nineteen years have elapsed since the lookout on the frail craft of the daring navigator on the morning of October 12 shouted "Land! Land!"
but the importance of the discovery
has not nearly yet approached the fulfillment. Only a scant vision of the promise of the world yet to be has been realized.

Not only the United States, but all America should join in celebrating the discovery of America by Christopher Columbus. The anniversary should become a Pan-American observance, and the occasion
made the opportunity to promote friendliness, good will and peace between the neighbors of the American continents and bind them closer together in the bonds of friendship. The observance of Columbus Day could be made an instrument to strengthen the American policy of the "Monroe Doctrine," which declares "the American continents are not to be made subjects for future European colonization." On the United States will fall the burden of maintaining this declaration if the policy is ever put to the test, which it is likely to be in the not remote future, and the time
may come when all the Americas
will have need to be united in the closest bonds of friendship for the mutual support of each other.

Therefore the observance of Columbus Day can be made a holiday of great import in the preservation of American liberty and independence.
America is the symbol of civil liberty
and it is as important to maintain this principle south of the equator as north of it. Columbus Day should become an inspiration along this line.

CLEAN AND HONEST

Why does the forthcoming series of baseball games between the champions of the two big leagues overshadow all other affairs, State or National, social, religious, political, economic, foreign or domestic? Why have fifty thousand people in New York and thirty thousand people in Philadelphia bought tickets to witness the opening game, involving the expenditures of hundreds of thousands of dollars? According to the Uniontown Herald, here is the secret.

"It is honest. Were the American public to entertain even a suspicion of its crookedness the game as it is now conducted would die in a year.
In the realms of trade, finance and speculation—not to speak of that of politics—the manipulation of loaded
dice has become so common that the public mind turns readily to something absolutely on the level.
That being the case it is not strange that there are some for whom baseball, as it is exploited in the National and American leagues, has no charms. The hundreds of thousands of Americans who will see those games and the millions who will read about them bear testimony to the fact that there is one honest interest—even if it be no more than a sport—in a land, the bulk of whose people from year to year ask each other if there be any honest thing under the sun."

PICKED UP IN PASSING

A week or more ago the Mail published in this column a brief account of a scene witnessed by Executive Committee Samuel C. Todd, and related to a group of friends by the latter when he was home to vote at the primary election on September 30.
The incident was a visit to Fort Henry, one of the New York harbor National defenses, during the recent convention of Governors of the United States which Governor J. K. Tener
with Mr. Todd as his guest attended.
The incident related was the loading
and firing of one of the big 12-inch guns at a target seven miles out in the harbor, which was perforated by a half-ton projectile, propelled by 300 pounds of powder.

A curious co-incidence was the presentation of the identical scene in li-vot or pictures at the Palace Theatre Wednesday night, in the Pathe Weekly Bulletin of noted world's events. Visitors to the theatre saw the operation of loading and firing
the big gun as clearly as Governor Tener and Mr. Todd did without the crash of the discharge. The gunners opened the breech of the big gun, which worked with a screw. Another squad trundled a truck up to the open breech containing a projectile weighing half a ton, and four bags of powder each as large as a man. The projectile was slid off the truck into the breech by means of a huge rammer, and then the bags of powder, one after the other, were rammed into the gun against the big projectile. The breech was then closed and the huge gun, rose on its carriage. A man stood on a platform beside it, who signaled the range, and then the gun was discharged. The recoil throwing it back into the pit, below the fortifications, were the gunners swabbed it out and loaded it in a jiffy, and then fired it again, making record time, and "each time the shot either came very close to the target or passed through it seven miles away, striking, according to Mr.
Todd 12 seconds after the discharge."
What was also remarkable about the picture was the spectacle of Governor Tener and Mr. Todd, as large as life, shown among the group of spectators walking around the gun pit before the firing began. This was prima facie evidence that Sam wasn't "stringing" his auditors when he told them the big gun story.

Down in Pittsburgh the other day
a prominent attorney told of how he once took on an office boy who was a product of the town district. The lad was alert and sharp as a steel trap, but so raw and uncultured that a vaudeville expert was no comparison in working off original terms.
"The first week the boy was with me," says the lawyer, "a woman came in to consult me. She was fashionably dressed, and carried a lorgnette. This was something the boy had never seen before, and it caught his eye at once. He ushered
the woman in escorted her to a seat as I had instructed him to receive clients
and then rapped on my private office door, opened it, and thrusting
his head inside, bawled out:

"Hey, boss, woman in here with a pair of specs on a stick wants to see you."

Always a Fly in the Ointment.
The two old cronies happened to be taking an automobile ride through the fruit belt.

"Rammage," observed the man with the cropped mustache, "this is a land
of plenty. I could be perfectly happy
here."

"You wouldn't though, Ruggles," returned the man with the auburn beard. "I'll bet you a dollar that the first man you congratulate on his prosperity will put up a howl about his hard luck."

"You're on."

Ten minutes later they stopped at a farmhouse, ostensibly to get a drink
of water.

"You've got the finest yield of grapes in that vineyard," casually remarked Ruggles, "I ever saw in my life."

"Yes," gloomed the fruit raiser.
"I've got too gosh-blamed many grapes
this year. I can't get half enough baskets to ship 'em in."

"Rammage, you win," said Ruggles.
And they rode on.

News Disseminators.

you have no reason for it, as it was undoubtedly done that the glad tidings
might spread sooner."

DEVIL BIRD HAS A FUL CRY

Natives of Ceylon Are Not to Be Blamed for Being Terrified
by Its Scream.

Of all the amazing sounds
emitted by wild creatures, none, it is said, is to be compared to that of the "devil bird" of Ceylon, whose cry has been likened to the scream of a human being undergoing the most frightful torture. Nature's have identified this bird with the brown
acrid owl found in Hindustan.

The natives of Ceylon regard the cry of this bird with superstitious horror, for, it is claimed, its scream
heard at night presages the most dire misfortune.

A British official of the Ceylon
civil service has given some study to this curious bird. Its ordinary note
he states is a magnificent clear shout
like that of a human being heard at a great distance, and producing a fine
effect in the silence of the night.

But the sounds that have earned for the bird its bad name and which
this officer reports he heard to perfection but once, are said to be well nigh undescribable the most appalling that can be imagined, and scarcely to be heard without a shudder. It has been described as the cry of a boy in torture, whose scream is being stopped by strangulation.—Scientific American.

Life's Three Questions.

The three great questions of life
are, "Is it right or wrong? Is it true or false? Is it beautiful or ugly?"
These our education should help us
to answer, and in so much as it fails
it will lack in reaching a proper physical and moral standard. When the college girl returns to her home,
whether it be her parents' or her own,
her college training should have fitted
her to answer these questions in relation to the fundamental needs of life, in food, clothing, and shelter.
This education I believe the teachings of home economics to give. General culture not alone means the capacity to understand and appreciate, but to react to the resources and problems
of modern civilization, and these problems in the large mean the preservation of health, the prompting of physical vigor, and the material well-being of the race.—Harper's Bazar.

The Quickest Way to Rest.

Do you know how to rest? A very busy man I know takes 20 minutes
every day to lie flat on his back on the floor to rest and relax. That is very good but I have found an even better way which is to lie flat on the floor with legs up to the knees resting on a chair. This changes the entire circulation, and is the quickest way to rest. Try it. When you lie down to rest at night, and the mind
insists upon working, try to relax thoroughly. Turn the thought to the weight of your body: think your hands heavy, keep the thought on the weight of your hands until the nerves tingle as if the hands were going to sleep. If you can feel that tingling sensation you have shown
the power of relaxation of the body.
Think different members of the body
heavy, until you can let go every nerve as if the entire body were so much jelly ready to melt on the bed.
This requires practice, but it pays richly. To rest the eyes and make them bright while lying down have them bandaged with a soft black silk bandkerchief. This was advice received from an eminent eye specialist.

Salt on French Roads.

As a general rule, the roads in and around French towns are tarred at the commencement of the summer in order to abate the dust nuisance. It has, however, been found that tar,
although excellent in the case of macadamized roads is of little or no value where car lines exist and paved street crossings intersect the roads in every direction, as tarring cannot be carried out on stones.

The authorities, basing their action
on the well-known hygienic properties
of common salt, have made
a test of its value in laying the dust.
Twenty yards of roadway have been sprinkled liberally with salt and then watered freely. If the results are satisfactory, salt will be used throughout the town of Havre, it being impossible to tar the majority of the streets, as they are paved with rough stone blocks.

Facts About Indigestion and Its Relief That Should Interest You

Although indigestion and Dyspepsia are so prevalent most people do not thoroughly understand their cause and cure. There is no reason why most people should not eat anything they desire—if they will only chew it carefully and thoroughly.
Many actually starve themselves in-
to sickness through fear of eating
every good-looking, good-smelling
and good-tasting food, because it does not agree with them.

The best thing to do is to fit yourself to digest any good food.

We believe we can relieve Dyspepsia. We are so confident of this fact that we guarantee and promise to supply the medicine free of all cost to every one who will use it, who is not perfectly satisfied with the results we will refund the money. We make no promises and put no one under any obligation whatever. Surely,
nothing could be fairer. We are located right here and our reputation should be sufficient assurance of the genuineness of our offer.

We want every one troubled with Indigestion or Dyspepsia in any form
to come to our store and buy a box of Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets. Take them home and give them a reasonable trial, according to directions. Then,
if not satisfied, come to us and get your money back. They are very pleasant to take; they aid to soothe the irritable stomach, to strengthen
and invigorate the digestive organs,
and to promote a healthy and natural
bowel action, thus leading to perfect
and healthy digestion and assimilation.

A 25c package of Rexall Dyspepsia
Tablets furnishes 15 days' treatment.
In ordinary cases, this is sufficient to produce a cure. In more chronic cases, a longer treatment, of course,
is necessary, and depends upon the severity of the trouble. For such cases, we have two larger sizes which sell for 50c and $1.00. Remember, you can obtain Rexall Remedies in this community only at our store—
The Rexall Store, Carrolls Drug Store, 623 Fallowfield avenue, Charleroi.

For Nifty Dressers.

To the man with a small income
economy is essential. By throwaway your old socks because the heels and toes are worn out? Cut off the legs, and (after washing of course)
sew them to the tops of your new pair of socks. Do the same when the lower pair is worn out, and so on as long as possible. A man who becomes attached to his cossery may,
by this simple process, in time become the owner of a handsome union
suit, without any extra expense.

When you cut off your beard save your whiskers. Shoulders are to be wider, and human hair, especially when curly makes the best possible padding. Or keep friendly with your barber and get him to save his clippings for you.

Avoid aniline dyes when you wish to recolor your light spring suit for fall wear. Vegetable dyes are much softer and more delicate. Almost any of the leading brands of canned soups will give a rich, mellow tone
to worsted fabrics. Tomato, mock turtle and gumbo will be the prevailing hues next season. Use hot water for cotton goods and milk for wool-
ens. Use no salt. —A. Haberdauber,

Algerian Bargaining.

Americans who travel in eastern
lands are amused as well as aggravated by the business methods which prevail there. A recent traveler in Algiers concluded to buy a mule, and finally found one for sale.

He went to the owner, with an interpreter, and a dialogue then ensued,
as follows:

The Interpreter, with a yell, "I will give you ten dollars for that mule."

The Arab, "Ten dollars! Murder!
Thief! Brigand!"

The Interpreter: "I will make it eleven dollars. Do you hear, you scoundrel? I offer you eleven dollars for your mule which will die in about a week. You are a robber and a thief to take that much; but I am a generous man, and I serve a great man, so I offer you even dollars, you scum
of Africa!"

Then they both yelled and shook their fists at each other, and to the American it looked as if they were going for each other hammer and tongs.

The row they made was terrible
but no one seemed to notice it.

Finally a bargain was struck, and then they fell upon each other's necks
and embraced.

And the American got his mule for eleven dollars.

SUPERSTITIONS OF THE HOME

Some of Them Are Traced to Domestic Economy and Others to Thrifty Habits.

The signs and wonders of the household have markedly diminished in the last quarter century. Many of them were picturesque and diverting. Few of them were taken seriously enough to be harmful.

It is easy to trace some of them to their sources in domestic economy. A group of them, for example, had to do with the approach of an unexpected guest. The scissors or a knife sticking up straight in the floor, a dropped dish cloth, or a long, floating stem in a cup of tea—all these foretold arrivals. They had the agreeable double effect of keeping the household up to a high mark of preparedness and of breaking monotony by the pleasure of anticipated society. If the prophesied caller followed the dropping of scissors the sign received an increased authority. When the promise failed, the failure was promptly forgotten.

Another group of superstitious rests upon the thrifty habits of former times. To pick up a pin brought good luck. To neglect to snuff a candle until it was wasted by a "weeper" was sure to insure misfortune. An overabundance of tea grounds in the cup spoke of careless measures, and so threatened debt. A second helping of food before the first was eaten foretold an undesirable beggar.

The woman's mind, if left to itself, turns naturally to believe the make-believe. A housewife likes to pit her credulity against her reason. The mere act of absurd illogic gives variety and charm to an otherwise dull afternoon of housework, and nobody is the worse for stretching the arm of imagination to include a little more superstition of the old-fashioned sort.

Berlin Police Arbitrarily Fix the Sum They Shall Be Allowed for Food.

Another instance of the way in which the Berlin police authorities interest themselves in every detail of the private life of the city's inhabitants is afforded by a decree just issued by the police president which arbitrarily fixes the sum per day which is to be allowed for food to domestic servants during their employers' absence in summer.

The term "domestic servant" includes everything, from the maid of all work of the small household to the butler, with all his retinue of lesser lights, in the house of the rich, and the decree lays down that each man servant shall receive a daily allowance of 35 cents and each maid servant 30 cents for food during the whole time of their employer's absence.

The new police regulation has been greeted with more delight by the servants than by their employers, especially among the middle classes, where the domestic servant problem in Germany is already acute enough. Although the amount of the daily allowance cannot be considered as excessive in relation to the present prices of food, when it is remembered that the ordinary wage, which in Germany is anything from $7.50 per month upward for the average domestic servant, has also to be paid during the employer's absence, it will be seen that the new regulation will mean a considerable item in the reckoning of the middle-class family about its summer vacation.

PERSECUTION OF THE GIPSY

Forty-five Executed in Hungary in 1728 on the Charge of Being Cannibals.

The persecution of Gypsies recalls the old belief that the Gypsies were cannibals, and the methods by which judicial confirmation of the belief was sometimes obtained. In 1728 45 Hungarian Gypsies were executed on this charge. First racked until they confessed to murder, they were taken to the place where their victims were supposed to be buried and racked again. No bodies were discovered. Therefore they confessed to eating them, and were duly executed. Joseph II. sent a commission down to investigate the case later, and the entire innocence of the Gypsies was proved, but history does not say what happened to the witnesses for the prosecution.

Gypsies are still more or less "persecuted," though in our milder modern sense of the word. And no wonder. A couple of years ago it was stated on official authority that in Hungary most of the serious crimes—murders, kidnappings and robberies—were committed by Gypsies, and very few of the offenders were caught. Gypsies are mighty difficult customers to tackle. When it was proposed in France that all nomads should have identity cards, to be checked at each stopping place, one of them said to a Paris reporter: "But I can't read, and I can't write, and I don't know how old I am, nor where I was born, and I don't remember the names of the places where my children were born, nor their ages exactly. We don't bother ourselves about such things." What can you do with people so astutely ignorant?

Blistering Once Universal. Blistering formerly was an almost universal treatment for internal congestion to draw the diseased fluid to the surface. It acted as a counter-irritant. It was also used for sciatica. Blistering is still used to a slight extent, but a milder application more frequently employed.

INSECTS HARMFUL TO MAN

Most of Them Are Worse Than Usual and Should Be Killed at Sight.

Our instinct to kill insects at sight is perfectly sound, writes Dr. Woods Hutchinson. Out of the quarter of a million species now known to science, a mere handful are even remotely helpful to man, and most of these only by their power of living upon other and more dangerous insects. On the other hand, thousands of species are actively hostile to man, to his food plants and to his domestic animals. Whole tribes have been swept out of existence by the attack of insects carrying bacilli—as within the last two decades, in central Africa, by the dread "sleeping sickness" carried by the tsetse fly. Whole nations have been weakened and crippled and whole civilizations retarded by another insect-borne disease, malaria.

Indeed, recent investigators have advanced the theory that the historic decline of both Greece and Rome was largely due to the ravages of this disease, brought into Europe by armies returning from wars in Asia and Africa. It may yet come, when we see things in their true perspective, that the warriors of civilized nations will turn from slaughtering one another to battling against our insect enemies.

Turn over a battery of artillery in the world against that angel of the pestilence, the common house fly, and in ten years he would be exterminated, root and branch. With him would go half of our 50,000 deaths in the United States every year from the summer diseases of children, two-thirds of our dysenteries and cholera morbus, and one-fourth of our typhoid, with not a little of our tuberculosis, our tetanus and our boils and blood poisonings.

MOUNTAIN GOAT A NUISANCE

Annoy Alaskan Miners by Getting Into Their Tunnels and Eating Their Location Stakes.

Miners in Mineral Gulch, Alaska, are having considerable trouble with mountain goats.

During stormy weather the goats crowd into the tunnels that are being driven on the claims well up on the mountains, and it is only by throwing a dynamite cartridge into the tunnels in the morning that they can be driven out and the contractors get in to go to work.

It is also stated that they are likely to be the cause of considerable litigation among mine owners next year, as they have destroyed a number of location stakes by eating them.

Owing to the fact that alder and willow comprise the only wood in the gulch, nearly all the location stakes are of these woods, which, in the absence of other food, the goats attack eagerly.

A great many of the animals have been killed by the men at work in the gulch, but the number seems to increase rather than diminish.

ELECTRIC POWER FROM WIND

Economical Lighting Plants Can Be Based on It, With Gasoline Motors to Help.

There has never been a time when the forces of nature were subjected to such searching scrutiny to determine their availability for the development of mechanical power as they receive at present. This arises mainly from the aggressive use of electricity.

Among other things it is believed that the wind can be utilized to a far greater extent than in the past, especially for electrical lighting. With this object in view the average state of the wind has been investigated in England. It is found that for approximately half the time the mean wind velocity is ten miles an hour, and for about one-third of the time fifteen miles. In the winter the average is higher. The great difficulty arises from the calm periods, which may last days, or even a week, but it has been shown that economical lighting plants can be based upon wind power by providing gasoline motors to take up the work whenever the wind fails.

The Conscience of Clara.

One day when Mrs. Bell was making a neighborly call on Mrs. Ellis, the latter, in the presence of her caller, discharged her colored maid, whose untidiness could be borne with no longer.

A few weeks later Mrs. Bell again called on Mrs. Ellis, and to her surprise her hostess informed her that Clara was back.

The services of the maid were required by her mistress, who pressed the button in the drawing room. There was, however, no response. Finally Mrs. Ellis went out and waited on herself. While she was gone, Clara, who was acquainted with Mrs. Bell, having served in her family also, put her head in at the door and explained:

"Mis' Bell, I heard Mis' Ellis all the time, but do you recollect the last time you was here she discharged me, an' said she'd never have me again? I said I'd never come back, too. But here I am, so we both lied. That's why I'm ashamed to come in. I was ashamed for both of us!"

LIVERY STABLE STOCK IN VENICE!

If a man of ordinary intelligence were approached by an affable stranger and urged to buy stock in a livery stable in Venice, he would in all likelihood feel insulted. He would have reason to be, for such an offer would be a reflection on his intelligence.

It is along lines like this that some business men advertise.

For instance: A clothier has a line of suits near the end of the season that he desires to close out. He advertises them at a sharp reduction. Compared with what he paid for them and what he sold them for at the opening of the season, they are a bargain. The public does not want the suits at that particular time at any price, and the clothier, not getting the results, makes a deduction that advertising doesn't pay, and ceases to advertise.

In the meantime the big department store in the nearest city is flooding the newspapers with cuts and descriptions of nifty ties, collars, marked down shirts that are good at any time, seasonable underwear at special prices that is needed to fill in between times.

The local dealer is disappointed because people won't buy stock in a livery stable in Venice; and loses the sale of other stocks that might be practicable.

The department store in the city gets the trade because it knows that the ordinary person has no use for something he does not need at that particular time.

The business man who never gets advertising to produce results are the Micawbers of trade—always waiting for something to turn up. The man who knows how to advertise, and tries to sell the people something they want, WHEN THEY WANT IT and not to unload what he doesn't want—turns something up.

MAKING RAIN WITH ROCKETS

Experiments Tried With Considerable Success on a Coffee Plantation in Southern India.

Experiments made to ascertain whether the discharge of explosives during cloudy weather produces rainfall are described in a letter from James Stanes.

"Some years ago," he says, "an experiment was tried in the Cuddapah district of southern India with considerable success. I am part owner of an estate in the Seramully hills, which is situated in a particularly dry zone. For several seasons poor coffee crops withered away from lack of rain during July and August.

"When I was visiting the estate in July, 1905, I noticed that heavy clouds gathered every afternoon and I thought that if we had been in a position to fire explosive rockets from the highest peak of the hills, about 4,500 feet, a shower of rain might have been produced.

"I therefore arranged to have a supply of rockets kept on the estate and fired off every afternoon at the rate of one rocket every five minutes, but only when the condition of the atmosphere was such that heavy rain threatened on all sides.

"Whether rain has fallen in response to these explosives or not the fact remains that ever since we first tried the experiment we have been fortunate enough to catch sufficient moisture to enable the crops to survive the drought."

Firing into the clouds with the object of causing rain was practiced for several years in southern Germany, Switzerland and France, but seems to have been abandoned some time ago. The idea was to protect the vineyards and other cultivations from damage by hailstones, it being thought that by the discharge of large guns rain would fall and that the danger from hailstorms would be averted.—London Daily Mail.

PASTOR IS WELCOMED

Rev. J. E. Charles Tendered Reception by His Congregation

RETURNED ON SUNDAY

Rev. Jos. E. Charles, pastor of the French Presbyterian church was back in his pulpit last Sunday. He was greeted by large audiences. His sermons on that day were: "The Christian Minister's One Theme," and "The Needed Church of the Age."

A reception was tendered to Rev. Charles and his wife an account of their return from abroad in the church Friday evening, October 6. The church was filled with people wanting to show their appreciation and esteem for their pastor and his estimable wife. M. Plasman, Jr., presided. The presidents of the different societies of the church, Messrs. Plasman, Parmenter and Verkleen made speeches. Rev. J. T. Hackett and J. K. Brumbaugh also spoke, every one expressing his gladness to see the pastor and his wife come back and continue their work in Charleroi.

Miss Margaret Morgan and Master Arnold Plasman read addresses, expressing the warm sentiments of the congregation and the Sunday School toward them. Then a magnificent picture of Rev. and Mrs. Charles in a heavy oak frame was presented to them as a token of affection and appreciation of their labors. Rev. Charles responded in a very appropriate manner.

The church was beautifully decorated. There were songs and music by an orchestra. Refreshments were served to all in the basement. Nothing was spared to make the evening one of the most interesting and enjoyable in the history of the congregation. Rev. and Mrs. Charles as well as the members of the church are to be congratulated.

The Jewel Box Alarm.

An ingenious invention, which will undoubtedly prove useful to the possessor of valuable jewels and trinkets, is the jewel box alarm, recently put on the market. In the bottom of the box is fixed the small instrument, which is to be electrically discharged by moving a small lever. The sound is made by means of a bell and clapper, resembling those found in a telephone. In the center of the box hangs a small pendulum. If the box is moved the pendulum swings, the circuit is closed and the alarm goes off. The noise resembles that of an alarm clock, and does not cease until it is reset again.

Gate Between Two Rooms.

It proved a blessing in one house. It is fastened in the doorway, between the nursery and "mother's room." There are times when the mother likes to watch the children without being right among them. Often sewing or writing may be done more easily with the gate between the mother and the little ones.—Ladies' Home Journal.

TALKS OF METHODS

Democratic Candidate Doesn't Admire Boogie Plan

To the Editor of the Charleroi Mail:

Sir—Your editorial on "Cause and Effect" is a fair sample of the crimes that are committed every day in some part of the Commonwealth, and it brings out in full view the importance of the subject, "Which is the Best Method to Prevent Crime." When I challenged the candidates for sheriff to debate this matter I had compiled a list of criminal cases that passed through the jails of Washington, Allegheny, Fayette and Westmoreland counties during the incumbency of the present officials of the court house as follows:

Allegheny county, 14,000; Fayette, 9,000; Washington, 4,000; Westmoreland, 1,700. I gave the list to Mrs. Austin, stenographer on the staff of the Monongahela Republican, who was present at the talk in the park on Sunday, September 24. I had it prepared for the education of the voter of Washington county in handling criminals who will one day take their places in the different localities from whence they came.

Now, let me give you a sample of the methods of campaigning at the present time. I will give it for what it is worth. It can be affirmed or denied.

On Friday evening, September 29, while driving home in Fallowfield township I was accosted by a stranger, under the influence of liquor. He asked me if I would give him a ride as the road was muddy and he was tired. I did so. He told me he was electioneering for a certain candidate for sheriff, on whom much money would be spent in order that the candidate might win out. This candidate, the man said, had given him $50 to work among the voters for him.

On election day in Charleroi six voters asked assistance from a bar-keeper to mark their ballot. While there may not be anything wrong in this, yet who can say what influence it may have in after years on "Cause and Effect."

The Keystone party candidates are in wrong, because that party is founded on revenge, rather than principle, and the so-called fusion is a false pretense. I am the candidate for the straight-out Democratic party. I invite the co-operation of all parties and if elected sheriff, I will give them an administration that will live in history. Let me say in conclusion that my name will stay on the Democratic ballot until it is taken off on the 7th of November.

Edward Callaghan.

Fallowfield, Pa., Oct. 13, 1911.

"EIGHTS" ARE THEIR HOODOOS

Postal Clerks Say Stamps of That Denomination Cause Them Much Financial Loss.

When a meek little man stepped up to the stamp window in a branch office and asked for an eight cent stamp he caused as much consternation as if he had demanded "your money or your life."

All the clerks came to the window to take a look at him. They muttered to one another and made strange and fantastic signs, crossed their fingers, knocked on wood and did various other things that are supposed to drive away evil spirits.

"We're just out of eight cent stamps," a clerk finally stammered. "Got lots of two and ones."

"Well, gimme a five and a three," said the meek little man, upon receiving which he paid for them and departed.

"What's the matter with the eights?" queried an inquisitive spectator.

The stamp clerk was still too nervous to answer, but one of the others said, with a smile:

"Eights are hoodoos. None of the small offices handle them if they can help it. It's this way: They are just a wee shade different in color from the ones and it is no infrequent thing for a stamp clerk in a hurry to hand out a lot of eights when ones are asked and paid for. It always costs him seven cents a stamp when he does it. The clerk here the other day, during the rush hour, when the offices are closing, was called upon for a dollar's worth of ones. He handed out a hundred eights instead. Cost him seven dollars. Then he got rid of all the rest of the eights and now he won't have anything to do with eights. Even says 'eaten' instead of 'eight'."

Candidates Tell How Much They Spent for Nomination

FIFTY CENTS FOR ONE

Candidate at the late primary election continue to file their expense accounts in the clerk's office at Washington in conformity with the law. Among those which appeared Tuesday was that of John H. Bowers, who was a candidate for the nomination for treasurer on the Republican ticket. Mr. Bowers spent, according to his statement, $1,087.40, the most of which was expended in advertising in the county newspapers.

Edward Callaghan, who was one of the Democratic candidates for the nomination for sheriff, states that his expense account was less than 50 cents. The law does not require a detailed statement if the expense account is less than $50, and provides a blank for that purpose. Mr. Callaghan crosses out the $50 in the blank and substitutes 50 cents.

Mrs. Anna G. Yates and Mrs. R. A. Roberts returned Tuesday evening from a visit at the home of William H. Blatzell, chief engineer of the Crucible Coal company at Beaver Falls. Mr. Roberts was a visitor over Sunday with Mr. Blatzell.

She Knew Harry.

"Now, Harry, go to Smith's, the grocer, and get a pound of the best syrup," said his mother, and she handed the young hopeful a couple of good-sized jugs. When the boy had gone the vicar's wife said:

"You didn't tell him to get anything in the other jug. Is he going to leave it at the shop?"

"No, ma'am; he's going to bring it back here again."

"But why send two jugs to get a pound of syrup?"

"Well, you see, it's this way. If he has a jug in each hand, he can't go dipping his finger in the syrup and eating it as he comes along."

Card of Thanks.

To all our friends, and especially our neighbors for their sympathy and for the flowers we extend our sincere thanks for the kindness extended us during the sickness and death of our beloved child.

Gentlemen

Take Notice

The other day a man came in the store, and said "Give me another pair of them Co-Operative shoes, if you haven't got them. don't show me anything else, I'd rather have you send for a special pair. I have tried, honest, every shoe sold in this town, from the most unknown to the most bragged about, but never did I have as satisfactory a pair as this Co-Operative I have on my feet, and I want another pair."

This is not the first or only token of appreciation of our efforts to please our customer in selling them the best made shoes at the most reasonable prices.

We carry the best made lines in ladies', men's and children's shoes and sell them reasonable.

We study our business night and day in order to get the best to satisfy our customers with.

Be one of our satisfied customers, try the store that is known for its honest and square dealing.

Place your faith in.

A Stupid Hunter.

Returning from two months spent on a ranch he was telling a story of hunting in the hills with an Englishman.

"All of us were out hunting one day," said he, "and the Englishman shot at everything that moved. If the wind carried a cloud of dust upward, you could depend on 'is ludship' to shoot at it. So it happened that he narrowly missed shooting a young woman, who, with her husband, was visiting on the ranch. When our party returned the husband, boiling angry, approached the Englishman and said:

"Look here, you damned stupid ass, you missed shooting my wife by an inch."

"Aw, missed her!" said the Englishman, either astonished or perplexed. "By an inch, by Jove? Well, old man, I'm sorry, very sorry."

Digestive Properties of Eggs.

The latest news of how eggs go in the stomach is: Two freshest soft-boiled, one and three-quarters hours; two raws, two and one-quarter hours; hard-boiled, three hours; omelette, three hours. The figures speak for themselves, but do not tell the whole truth, for it looks as if soft-boiled are more easily digested than raws, whereas, raws are so bland and gentle as not to excite the flow of the gastric juices—not a single squirm of the stomach.—New York Press.

We Want to See You----- We'll Treat You Rightly

We know you don't like to be pulled and hauled all over the store, passed through the gauntlet of clerks and finally turned over to the proprietor simply because you don't find what you want, and you don't want some little whippersnapper of a clerk to insist upon your taking what you don't want. You have, doubtlessly been through this ordeal, and vowed that you would never go into that store again. You're right—you don't have to.

Shoes should stand on their merits and a first-class shoe house always has a large enough assortment for a customer to be suited without having something forced on him which he forever dislikes. Come our way. If we cannot possibly suit you we will treat you kindly just the same. One thing certain—if you can't find anything to suit you in our store, you can't find it in Charleroi. And, furthermore, if you don't find that our prices are right, don't spend a cent with us. Fair proposition hey?
